Generation K Kultur trifft Schule

Paula Wing is an actor, playwright, translator and teacher. She has travelled internationally teaching with the Learning Through the Arts Program at the Royal Conservatory of Music. She has taught children from Northern Canada to southern Germany, from New York City to Whitehorse in the Yukon, using the arts to engage students with core curriculum. She partners with teachers and community groups to create original programming that responds to the needs and creative longings of a variety of participants, with a particular emphasis on young people. Paula is a Professor in the Dramatic Arts Department at the University of Windsor, where she teaches a 4th year Acting Class and a 3rd Year Artist Educator Class on how to engage and inspire young people.
